El Salvador is a fascinating country located in the heart of Central America. Its people, taking advantage of the tropical scenery and abundant vegetation, delight their palates with native foods. It is our desire to capture such an experience in our food. We have explained some of our unique items; however, words cannot embrace their taste, so we encourage you to try them.

- Yuca - a tropical root, with a texture like yams or acorn squash. It has a mild flavor that is complemented by seasonings.
- Tamales - a hand-made tamale, wrapped and steamed in fresh banana leaves, gently spiced and filled with chicken, chunks of potatoes, sweet peppers and tiny bits of tomatoes.
- Plantain - a large tropical banana. This fruit is not sweet when picked; however, when cooked the heat brings about a change in the banana that sweetens it.
